Make a difference...

Becoming a member of the Arkwright Society today means that not only will you help us to preserve this important heritage and Arkwright's legacy for future generations, but also make a real difference to the lives of people today.

Restoration and regeneration...

The Arkwright Society's key objective is to regenerate the site and its Grade I listed mills at Cromford by creating sustainable new uses that contribute positively to the local environment and economy.

Building confidence and fulfilling potential...

Our preservation work means we are able to provide training opportunities for the unemployed, work experience and volunteering roles for those seeking work but in need of first hand 'real life experiences' in the workplace, together with volunteering roles for other members of the community.

Creating opportunities and gaining experience...

We continue to create imaginative and innovative education programmes for schools and colleges, new job opportunities for our local communities, and business premises for budding new entrepreneurs.

Join the Arkwright Society...

Cromford Mills would not be here today if it wasn't for the Arkwright Society – the charity that owns and manages this heritage site of world importance, and which is part of the Derwent Valley Mills World Heritage Site.

Promoting innovation...

Richard Arkwright built Cromford Mills, the world's first successful water powered cotton spinning mill, which became the model for other mills across Britain and abroad and earned Arkwright the accolade of 'Father of the factory system'.

Forging the future...

We want to ensure that Cromford Mills are as dynamic, innovative and creative today as they were in the 18th century. Help us to keep that spirit alive by joining us as a member. Your subscriptions are vital if we are to progress the regeneration programme at Cromford Mills.
